FINISH LINE!

Chicago Tribune

At the end point of Sunday's Bank of America Chicago Marathon, runners walked with medals around their necks and beers in their hands. And they talked about running 26-plus miles on an October Sunday in Chicago. About 45,000 participants from all 50 states and runners from more than 100 countries registered to take part in the 35th annual Bank of America Chicago Marathon.

So, in case you missed it, "Goosebumps" turned 20 this year. I know, right?

The children's book series about strange monsters, eerie grown-ups, cursed tchotchkes and the relentless ability of 12-year-olds everywhere to overcome these obstacles was first published in July 1992. Ermahgerd!

Scholastic says all those titles from R.L. Stine—who, by the way, has a new book out for 20- and 30-somethings called "Red Rain" that drops Tuesday—put it in the pantheon as one of the best-selling children's series of all time. Back in the day, they were unloading 4 million of those bad boys a month, according to Reuters.

Clearly, the stories struck a chord with just about anyone growing up in the '90s, myself included. But those were different times. When I realized the horror series that defined my childhood was turning the big 2-0 this year, I was inspired to look back at some of the things from the books that scared me then. Here's a list of classic "Goosebumps" plotlines—alongside the things that currently keep me up at night.

Then: A dad who creates a plant clone of himself as a result of weird basement experiments.
Now: Cultural malaise.

Then: A spooky mask that won't come off.
Now: Deodorant that wears off.

Then: Monster blood.
Now: Crushing student loan debt.

Then: My neighbor is a ghost!
Now: My neighbor is a drug dealer.

Then: A mirror that looks normal but actually is a gateway into

If you suffer from neck pain, tingling in the arms, or shoulder pain, this could be the most eye-opening article you'll ever read.

Why Haven't People With Neck or Shoulder Pain Been Told These Facts?

It can affect your sleep, your marriage and your job. Nothing's worse than feeling great mentally, but physically feeling held back from life because your neck hurts and the pain just won't go away!

My name is Dr. Paul Ruzila, owner of Chicago Chiropractic and Wellness. Over the past eight years since we've opened the doors, we've seen hundreds of people with neck pain, arm problems and shoulder pain leave the office pain free.

Because patients tell me too often... "I only wished I had found you sooner", I'm running a special two week Neck/Shoulder Pain Evaluation for those suffering with neck problems.

*Feel the Improvement – and Say
"Yes" to Life Again*

With my "Neck/Shoulder Pain Evaluation" we'll be able to find the problem and then correct it. Think of how you'll feel in just a few short weeks.

See and feel your life change for the better. Start your body on the way to pain-free, normal living. Feel tight joints rest, relax, free up. Feel muscles tied in knots become more supple. Feel strength in your muscles increase.

As you begin to see motion returning to your joints, you're preventing and reducing chances of disability and a crippling future.

You're able to live life like a normal person again, without neck pain -- able to play with your kids, enjoy time with friends, and not have to worry that your pain will hit you at just the wrong time.

"Will This Really Work For Me?"

Chiropractic has been around for over a hundred years, and has been used to help everyone from tiny babies to the elderly. Even top sports star and entertainers... like Tiger Woods, Emmitt Smith, Tony Robbins, Joe Montana, Lance Armstrong, Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger and Mel Gibson.

These professional athletes have the money to hire any kind of doctors they want, yet they choose to have a chiropractor on their team.

A recent scientific study showed chiropractic adjustments outperformed massage treatments in reducing pain. The study concluded that patients with chronic neck pain showed "clinically important improvements from a course of spinal manipulation... The current evidence does not support a similar level of benefit from massage." – J Manipulative Physiol Ther 2007

In another study comparing acupuncture, a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug, and spinal manipulation found...

"After a median intervention period of 30 days, spinal manipulation was the only intervention that achieved statistically significant improvements." – J Manipulative Physiol Ther 1999

IF YOU READ NOTHING ELSE READ THIS

The following conditions can be caused by a problem in your neck...

- Carpal tunnel syndrome
- Numbness and tingling in the arms and hands
- Cervical disc bulging and herniations
- Weakness in the arms/hands
- Neck Pain
- Headaches
- Tension in the shoulders
- Shoulder and arm pain

In addition to that, here's what some of the top medical researchers had to say...

Chiropractor's manipulation of the spine was "more helpful than any of the following: traction, massage, biofeedback, acupuncture, injection of steroids into the spine and back corsets, and ultrasound." – Stanley Bigos, MD, Professor of Orthopedic Surgery

The 9 Most Dangerous Words A Person With Neck Pain Can Say

The big myth about health problems is "maybe it will just go away on its own."

A 1998 study in the British Medical Journal proved this myth false, showing that most back pain sufferers who do nothing will have pain 12 months later.

That's no way to live.

The Single Most Important Solution To Your Neck Pain

For 14 days only, $27 will get you all the services I normally charge new patients $250 for!

What does this offer include? Everything I normally do in my new patient evaluation. Just call before October 19th and here's what you'll get...

- An in-depth consultation about your neck problems where I will listen...really listen...to the details of your case.
- A complete neuromuscular examination.
- A full set of specialized x-rays to determine if a spinal problem is contributing to your pain or symptoms... (NOTE: These would normally cost you at least $100).
- A thorough analysis of your exam and x-ray findings so we can start mapping out your plan to being pain free.
- A special report complimenting your recommendations that reveals the foods you should and should not eat, the best way to sleep and how to reduce stress.

Call today and we can get started with your consultation, exam and x-rays as soon as there's an opening in the schedule. Our office is called Chicago Chiropractic and Wellness, conveniently located in downtown Chicago. Tell the receptionist you'd like to come in for the Neck/Shoulder Pain Evaluation before October 19, 2012.

The appointment will not take long at all and you won't be sitting in the waiting room for long – no more than 15 minutes.

Sincerely,
Dr. Paul Ruzila, D.C.

Vision for riverwalk

The concept is there, now officials to explore funding options

Chicago Tribune

Attempting to create another popular venue like Millennium Park, the city is unveiling a proposed $100 million build-out of the Chicago River riverwalk stretching from State to Lake streets, complete with distinctive names and themes for each of the six blocks.

The plans are still conceptual, and Mayor Emanuel's administration has not secured funding or set a timetable for constructing the still-evolving urban pedestrian walkway at water's edge, officials said.

But now there is a clearer vision to complete the riverwalk. It broadens the mainly functional and formal qualities of the already-completed section between Lake Shore Drive and State Street at Wacker Drive in the center of downtown.

The new portion, continuing along the south bank of the river, will house more restaurants. But it also is intended to offer individual spaces between the bridges spanning the river, spaces that are naturalistic, recreational, even playful, and above all welcoming to residents, visitors and people of all ages, according to the design team.

The various themes that the mayor's office plans to announce this week are:

- » "The Boardwalk," from Lake to Franklin streets, a wood-planked section dotted by floating gardens and an iconic bridge bringing people from Upper Wacker to the riverwalk.

- » "The Jetty," from Franklin to Wells streets, a learning center promoting the ecology of the river, from native plants and wildflowers to fish and frogs.

- » "The Swimming Hole," from Wells to LaSalle streets, a recreational area envisioned as featuring a "zero-depth fountain" for children to splash around in. And yes, the city has set a goal to eventually make the Chicago River itself clean enough to swim in.

- » "The River Theater," from LaSalle to Clark streets, landscaped with trees providing shade and a full-width staircase linking Upper Wacker and the riverwalk.

- » "The Cove," from Clark to Dearborn streets, which may include kayak rentals and space for nonmotorized watercraft to dock next to the promenade.

- » "The Marina," from Dearborn to State streets, featuring restaurants and public seating to sit back and watch the river traffic, which ranges from water taxis and sightseeing boats to Fire Department patrols and work barges.

"This plan is a thoughtful way of interpreting the wildness and naturalness of the river and connecting it into the center of the city," said Margaret Frisbie, executive director of Friends of the Chicago River.

Survey on CTA: bench or bucket?

Chicago Tribune

The Active Transportation Alliance is conducting a survey that asks CTA train riders: buckets or benches?

Despite receiving complaints from many CTA customers, it appears that officials at the transit agency won't reconsider a decision made at least six years ago to install aisle-facing seating on new rail cars that are being manufactured.

But the Active Transportation Alliance is taking a poll of CTA riders that asks whether they specifically prefer the individual "scoop" bucket-style seats that are on the new CTA 5000 Series cars; bench seating that does not define individual space, similar to the configuration on the New York Metropolitan Transportation Authority's R142 Series cars; or no preference.

Commuters can take the poll at activetrans.org/ctaseats by Sunday.

The Active Transportation Alliance will share the survey results with the CTA, spokesman Ethan Spotts said.

Stewart, O'Reilly rumble for online audience

WASHINGTON Saturday's debate between conservative commentator Bill O'Reilly and liberal funnyman Jon Stewart was nothing like the televised presidential debates: After all, the prize for winning was a wrestling belt.

But nonetheless, the two television personalities stood behind lecterns and took their chances at questions from the moderator and audience.

"What do you think is the most fundamental problem with the public political discourse?" the moderator asked.

"Stewart," O'Reilly snapped back.

Between their laughs and shenanigans, references to Big Bird and Clint Eastwood, O'Reilly and Stewart fit in something besides talking points.

"Honestly, I think we've lost our ability to problem-solve. We're having the wrong conversation in this country," Stewart said in response to the discourse question. "The conversation we're having in this country is about a fundamental clash of civilizations when I think we have basically agreed that we're a social democracy. Whether you want to get around it or not, this isn't a conversation between freedom and tyranny and capitalism and socialism."

O'Reilly followed, "The problem with the discourse deal is capitalism."

"You can make a lot of money by being an assassin," he said. "It doesn't matter: right wing or left wing. You go in and you're a hater—radio, cable, in print, whatever—you can get paid. ... Capitalism drives that. There are people—Americans—who want to hear hate."

GREEN BAY WHO? BEARS LOOK LIKE THE TERROR OF THE NFC NORTH NOW

RedEye

Time to take a deep breath, Bears fans. Heading into the bye week, Lovie Smith's team is 4-1. That's a far cry from where it felt the Bears might be after the Packers manhandled them in Week 2. Now they have more than two weeks to heal before a Monday night throwdown against Detroit on Oct. 22 at Soldier Field. And now that the dust has settled on the first five weeks of the season, let's see who's got the upper hand in the NFC North.

NFC NORTH	W	L	GB

Finally, Jay Cutler is surrounded with formidable weapons. Each game, we'll track the target that tempts him most.

Week 1: Brandon Marshall
Week 2: Matt Forte

Week 3: Marshall
Week 4: Marshall

Sunday: Make no mistake, Cutler REALLY loves throwing to Brandon Marshall. Do his 12 catches for 144 yards remind you of any former Bears? No? Well, that's kind of the point.

BEARS (4-1)

Five defensive touchdowns in the past three games. Brandon Marshall playing like a receiver the Bears have never had before (because he is). The defensive line devouring every quarterback in its path. Jay Cutler even smiling every once in a while. Really, about the only thing not going the Bears' way is that Gabe Carimi can't figure out when the play starts.

Detroit quarterback Matthew Stafford is sacked.
MCT

DETROIT (1-3)

The "up-and-coming" Lions are buried in the cellar of the NFC North, quarterback Matthew Stafford can get hurt any minute, and normally menacing receiver Calvin Johnson has but one touchdown this season. Come to think of it, these look like the Lions of old—a nonfactor from start to finish. All you need to know about Detroit right now is the team lost to the lowly Tennessee Titans.

STAYING POWER: 1 ● ● ● ● ● ● ● ● ●

GREEN BAY (2-3)

Perhaps the Bears—and the rest of the NFC North—owe the replacement refs a gift basket or something. Since the controversial call against Seattle cost Green Bay a win, the Packers scraped by New Orleans in Week 4, then blew a 21-3 lead in a loss to Indianapolis on Sunday. Only a fool would count them out at this point, but no one thought they'd be this far behind, even this early.

Vikings quarterback Christian Ponder
US PRESSWIRE

MINNESOTA (4-1)

Could it be that Brett Favre was holding the Vikings back? The answer to that question appears to be a resounding yes. Quarterback Christian Ponder has been solid but not spectacular, which is fine for Minnesota because running back Adrian Peterson looks like, well, Adrian Peterson again. The Bears play Minnesota twice in three games toward the end of the season, at which point the division title could be decided.

Tillman, Briggs and déjà vu

Chicago Tribune

You can call the Bears a "second-half team"—and they'd probably be cool with that.

Spurred by their opportunistic defense for the second straight game, the Bears broke open a close game in the second half Sunday to emerge with a 41-3 road win at Jacksonville.

Charles Tillman's 36-yard interception return for a score gave the Bears a 13-3 lead early in the second half, and linebacker Lance Briggs later returned a tipped pass 36 yards for a touchdown with 7:54 left in the game to make it 34-3.

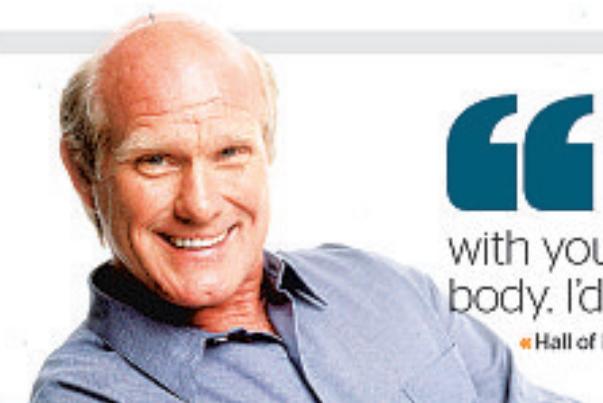

Both veteran Pro Bowl defenders returned interceptions for touchdowns for the second straight game.

"How about Charles Tillman and Lance Briggs, two weeks in a row?" coach Lovie Smith said. "I don't think that's probably ever happened. A great job by the D."

It gave the Bears five interception-return TDs in their past three games.

"We talk about it constantly," Smith said of the takeaways. "It's part of the DNA of our defense. It's not a good game unless we take the ball away."

Jay Cutler (23-of-39, 292 yards, two TDs, one interception) threw touchdown passes to Alshon Jeffery and Brandon Marshall in the second half of the game, which was tied 3-3 at halftime.

QUOTABLE

If I were you, I would learn how to be a little bit nicer. I know you don't care and nor do I care if I ever sit down and do an interview with you—which I have yet to do—maybe there's a reason for that. I like everybody. I'd like to like you, but right now I don't like you. Grow up, young man."

3 Why does Charles Barkley think LeBron James can be better than Michael Jordan?

The North Carolina State Wolfpack. Just... I just can't believe it.

Is Sir Charles still jealous of MJ? I have the same amount of rings as Barkley.

He was referring to acting in a "Space Jam" sequel.

That Weight Watchers diet has Chuck lightheaded. Give him a doughnut and he'll wisen up.

Better at owning a team, maybe.

4 Dwyane Wade is to flopping as ...

The only thing that kept me going was the amazingness that was Andrew Barber's wedding.

... Chicago baseball is to choking!

... Mitt Romney is to flip-flopping.

... Amanda Bynes is to hit-and-runs. Just comes naturally.

... Hulk Hogan is to movie-making. Just. Absolutely. Wrong.

5 Michael Phelps sank a 159-foot putt in Scotland. What's he win?

Shouts to him and the Mrs. I'm now going back into mourning.

A $5 footlong Subway sandwich, a kilt and a bong.

Me not making yet another joke about Subway. I'm through with him.

People might FINALLY give him a little credit for his athletic ability.

A 159-foot sub from Subway. And a new campaign: "Five dollar 159-footlongs"

Thanks, Sporting KC!

The Chicago Fire had a productive weekend. On Saturday, they blanked the New York Red Bulls 2-0 on the road. And Sunday they clinched an Eastern Conference playoff spot thanks to the Columbus Crew's 1-1 tie against Sporting KC. The Fire sit in second place in the conference with two regular-season games remaining.

THE MOUTHWATCH

Both players had possession at that point. They were wrapped around it like a meatball and their arms were like spaghetti."

The Bears crowd at Rogers Park's Poitin Stil filed in one by one before kickoff, and with each new fan came a shout of "Bears!" from the rest of the bar, as if this were Cheers and Bears fans were Norm. I was at a table with my buddies Ben and Ben, the three of us waiting for our pal Tony the Packers Fan, a man surely downtrodden after Green Bay blew a game in Indianapolis.

Halfway into the first quarter a friend of Tony's in a Colts hat walked in and received applause and a standing ovation. He waved to the crowd like the queen of England and accepted congratulatory high-fives as he sat down at the bar.

At last Tony slunk in, a Randall Cobb jersey on his back and sorrow in his eyes. No one said much to him, except for one of the Bens, who chirped, "I missed the end of the game. What happened?"

Tony said nothing as he quietly sipped his beer. But his self-esteem was on the rise when the first half ended in a 3-3 tie. Nothing was going right for the Bears—even Brandon Marshall spent time writhing on the turf with an apparent leg injury.

"Damnit!" a man in an orange Bears T-shirt exclaimed. "Can't these guys stay healthy for one year? Just one year?"

But soon Marshall was back and the concern was over, as the Bears ripped off a second half for the ages. Their first drive netted a field goal; two plays later Charles Tillman returned an interception for a touchdown; four plays later the Jaguars punted; nine plays later Cutler hit Alshon Jeffery for a 10-yard touchdown; five plays later the Jaguars punted; seven plays later Cutler hit Marshall down the right sideline for a score; four plays later Lance Briggs returned a pick for a touchdown; four plays later the Jaguars punted; eight plays later Armando Allen rocked a 46-yard touchdown run; seven plays later the game was over.

Bears 41, Jaguars 3. Enjoy your beer, Tony.

CROWD FUNDING SITE POWERS CHICAGO VIDEO GAMES TO THE NEXT LEVEL

By Ryan Smith

FOR REDEYE

Larry Griffin broke all kinds of unwritten rules about creating a video game development studio when he founded Cosmosaur.

The recent Columbia College graduate and three former classmates started the company with almost no money or industry connections. They chose to stay in Chicago, which is hardly on par with Silicon Valley when it comes to tech opportunities. To top it off, their first project is a quirky, difficult-to-market PC game about an intern who runs thankless errands on the moon.

But after launching a campaign on crowd funding website Kickstarter in July to finance the proposed game "Moon Intern," Griffin's team earned more than $43,000 in a single month, which was more than enough to pay for what essentially will be their part-time jobs for the next year.

"It's fun and really exciting," said Griffin, 28, of Rogers Park. "It's our dreams coming true. I still can't believe it's happening."

Kickstarter, a Brooklyn-based startup founded in 2009, quickly is becoming the go-to source of capital for an increasing number of gaming entrepreneurs. The site enables creative projects of all sorts—from films and fashion to food—to receive financial pledges ranging from $1 to $1,000.

Video games in particular tend to be popular on Kickstarter. They make up only two percent of all projects, but earn nine percent of the dollars pledged. The average non-game project receives $5,087 compared to a stunning $20,948 earned by video games, according to Kickstarter data.

That number, however, is somewhat skewed because of a few standout projects which have raised millions of dollars. Beloved game developer Tim Schafer, the maker of cult classics like "Psychonauts" and "Grim Fandango," raised eyebrows in February after his Double Fine studio reached its goal of $400,000 for a proposed game in just eight hours. The point-and-click adventure game didn't even have a name, but still ended up earning $3.3 million, a new record.

Few projects have as much clout as Schafer's, but even relative unknowns have been able to secure enough funding to work on their smaller-scale games.

Ryan Wiemeyer and former DePaul classmate Michael Block had a modest $3,000 goal when they launched a Kickstarter in December for a “director's cut” mobile phone version of “Organ Trail”—a parody/homage to the educational Apple II game “Oregon Trail” found in many grade school classrooms in the '80s.

Kickstarter boost

“Some of my friends thought they'd get rich off making mobile games, and ended up with like $40 based on three months of work.”

But “Organ Trail” raised a total of $16,339 on Kickstarter, more than five times their goal and enough that Wiemeyer felt comfortable quitting his full-time job at Disney-owned Wideload Studios to teach part time at DePaul and start an independent company called The Men Who Wear Many Hats.

“I think when we made the original, we had a budget of something like 30 bucks,” said Wiemeyer, 26, of Lakeview. “When [the Kickstarter] exploded I was like, ‘OK cool, I'll quit my job.’”

Tom Dowd, an associate professor at Columbia College who helped advise Griffin on “Moon Intern,” said Kickstarter is becoming part of his class's curriculum.

CHICAGO GAMES BORN ON KICKSTARTER

OCTODAD2

What is it? A group of former DePaul students launched a Kickstarter in July 2011 for a PC game about an octopus trying to pass himself off as a human father.

How much? 608 backers pledged $24,320, surpassing the goal of $20,000.

Most interesting reward: For $800, donors got a custom Octodad costume "tailored to fit you or your cat."

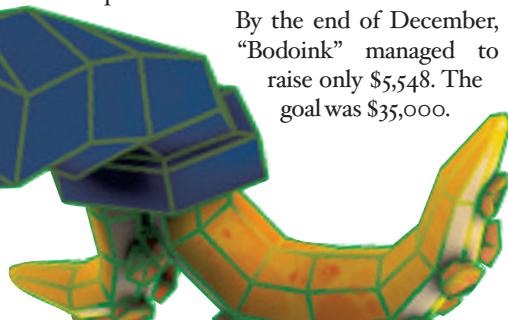

opers have to work hard to get their project noticed.

"Some of my friends thought they'd get rich off making mobile games, and ended up with like $40 based on three months of work," Wiemeyer said. "A lot of people are talking about doing it, but there's no guarantee of money."

That's a lesson that Robomodo learned the hard way. The West Loop-based company and creator of three Tony Hawk skateboarding games for Xbox 360 and PlayStation 3 tossed up a Kickstarter in November for "Bodoink"—a motion-controlled game for the Xbox Kinect in which players steer their own avatar into pinball-like environments.

By the end of December, "Bodoink" managed to raise only $5,548. The goal was $35,000.

ORGAN TRAIL

What is it? Two former DePaul classmates' successful Kickstarter campaign at the end of the 2011 helped them launch a zombie apocalypse version of "Oregon Trail."

How much? 495 backers pledged $16,339, far exceeding the $3,000 goal.

Most interesting reward: For $250, five backers got both illustrated and digital zombie caricatures of their own likenesses.

MOON INTERN

What is it? A foursome of new Columbia College grads recently completed a Kickstarter for an action/role-playing game about an intern on the moon.

How much? 1,609 individual backers pledged $43,054. The goal was $30,000.

Most interesting reward: For $250, a single donor had his or her likeness and personality used for the "President of the Moon" character.

"It was something that with hindsight, we almost took it too lightly," Robomodo president Josh Tsui said. "It wasn't a priority for us—we all had day jobs. If we do it again, we'd take it much more seriously than we did."

Kickstarter projects can face other problems. In exchange for donations, backers earn rewards ranging from a copy of the product, their name in the end credits or having a private meal with the project founders. Sometimes companies overpromise when it comes to the rewards.

"You really have to be careful with it," said Wiemeyer, who estimated that he spent a month doling out all the rewards for "Organ Trail," which included custom shirts, posters, buttons, statues and putting the names of benefactors on tombstones in the game itself. "I think we spent an entire night at the post office one time mailing everything out. Next time we'll be smarter about it."

Even with the logistical nightmare that a rewards system can create, Griffin said he enjoys being able to directly work with the audience for his game. His plan is to sell the likenesses of 500 characters that appear in the game—pilots, scientists, cubicle workers and the like—to Kickstarter backers.

"This process makes me take the community much more seriously," Griffin said. "We're excited to talk to them and flesh out this experience with them."

1 Todd Kessler

Age: 30

Neighborhood: Uptown

Team: Cee-Lo

Blind audition song: Rod Stewart's "Maggie May"

What has it been like working with Cee-Lo?

What's great about Cee-Lo is he's never trying to change me or mold something that I'm not. He heard something in my voice that I didn't hear, and he wanted to kind of move forward with that vibe, which turned out to be a really great learning experience.

Give us a little of your background.

I grew up in Northbrook and then moved down to the city after graduating from [University of Illinois]. I messed around with the open mics around the city. I have since, with my band [The New Folk], worked my way to playing Lincoln Hall, Space, a residency at Schubas and we just released our album.

2 Brandon Mahone

Age: 18

Neighborhood: Formerly Auburn Gresham; now Indianapolis

Team: Adam

Blind audition song: The Temptations' "I Wish it Would Rain"

What was the audition like?

I was very nervous. ... Before I've only had to perform in front of people I know, but nothing like that. It was just very overwhelming. I didn't know what to do, except sing. I felt safe once Adam turned around, I felt like I was gonna be in the competition. So that helped some, but I was still nervous.

You had three coaches to choose from.

Why'd you pick Adam?

I didn't pick Christina because even though her voice is beautiful, I'm not really familiar with a lot of her music, only some of the old stuff she sang back in the '90s. Cee-Lo, I really wanted to pick him, but what he said, it wasn't convincing like what Adam said.

CHICAGO'S VOICES

RedEye

Five Chicago vocalists have made it through the blind auditions on NBC's "The Voice," but they don't get to relax just yet as the competition moves into the battle rounds.

At press time it wasn't clear whether Brandon Mahone, De'Borah, Julio Cesar Castillo, Todd Kessler or Terisa Griffin would face off against fellow Chicagoans when the battles begin at 7 p.m. Monday on NBC. But in the coming weeks, coaches Christina Aguilera, Cee-Lo Green, Adam Levine and Blake Shelton will pit members of their teams against each other to narrow the field from 64 competitors to 40.

RedEye spoke with four of the five Chicago artists before their battle rounds began. Read the full interviews at redeyechicago.com.

» Terisa Griffin was unavailable prior to press time; RedEye will talk to her this week.

3 De'Borah

Age: 24

Town: Rosemont

Team: Christina

Blind audition song: Train's "Hey Soul Sister"

The judges waited a long time to turn around for you. What was going through your head?

I was like really nervous, you know? It's nerve-racking. We only had 90 seconds to sing, and in those 90 seconds they turned around for me in the last like six seconds. So I went from being extra confident to just staring at the chairs like, "C'mon, man."

What has it been like working with Christina?

I'm still in shock mode. I'm in fan mode. Going into the battles, I was more staring at her like, "Oh my God, it's you." ... She really took time to learn who I'm ready to become. So working with Christina so far has been student towards professor, you know, I'm just sitting in class right now.

4 Julio Cesar Castillo

Age: 21

Neighborhood: Portage Park

Team: Blake

Blind audition song: Ritchie Valens' "La Bamba," entirely in Spanish

Why did you choose "La Bamba," and why all in Spanish?

I know it's not the most typical Spanish song, but it is a well-known song in the American community that, for me as a Hispanic, we kind of relate to really. So it kind of connected both the Hispanic and American in some way. I thought it would be a good song to get both sides.

What has it been like working with Blake Shelton?

Blake is awesome. He's actually a really good guy. He's cool. He's funny, and he's a really good coach. He tells it exactly how it is, and if there's something wrong, he'll tell you.

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

You have a fatal tendency to mix business with pleasure. There is action in your career sector for the first time in, like, forever. You'll be meeting intelligent and cool people, but don't mess it up by dating them.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

You're inspired to make big changes. Maybe you'll decide to indulge your cross-dressing fantasy. Or perhaps you'll call up that former flame since you still believe he or she is your soulmate. Good luck.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Be more practical. Do you think that hot girl in the Netherlands you met online is somebody you should be proposing marriage to? Should you really set up house with a guy who thinks his model train set is more important than your relationship?

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

A collaboration is paying off. Maybe you and your sweetheart finally succeeded in getting pregnant. Something interesting is happening that will move your life forward, thanks to Venus.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Sometimes you're way too casual about sex. You can sleep with someone and five minutes later literally forget his or her name.

This isn't a good thing. The moon says that behavior could come back to haunt you.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You have a parent, a sibling or a significant other who wants to control you, and you're getting sick of it. You need to set boundaries. Whose life is it, anyway? Hint: it's yours.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDAYS

Monday

- » Bruno Mars is 27
- » Nick Cannon is 32
- » Matt Damon is 42

Tuesday

- » Country singer Scotty McCreery is 19
- » Singer P.J. Harvey is 43
- » Tyler James Williams is 20

Aries March 21-April 19

You're obsessed with your looks. You're convinced that you're too fat, too thin, too hairy or not hairy enough. With the sun opposite your sign, you're worried that you'll die alone and be eaten by your many cats.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Saturn says face facts. You always see the best in people, but is it really OK for your serious girlfriend to be painfully addicted to "Real Housewives" shows? Can we say deal breaker?

Gemini May 21-June 21

You could attract a sugar daddy or a rich cougar, thanks to bountiful Jupiter. Maybe you'll finally have a chance to travel on a yacht or swim in a private pool lined with gold. Just don't forget your more modestly monied honey back home.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Your psychic abilities are messing with you, courtesy of a freaky moon. You're convinced that your guy is seeing his ex-girlfriend just because her image suddenly popped into your head.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

You're likely to have a missed connection. Mercury is messing with your schedule, making it hard for you to hook up with that cutie you've been longing to seduce. Don't have a hissy fit if your date is cancelled.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Venus is trying to fix your romantic situation. Even though you've gotten yourself into a mess, it's not impossible to fix it. You just need to stop being such a perfectionist.

FIRE VS. 'FIRE'

IT'S A TEAM! IT'S A SHOW!
IT'S MILDLY CONFUSING!

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

The Chicago Fire confusion has begun.

Taylor Kinney—star of the upcoming NBC firefighter drama “Chicago Fire”—told reporters during a conference call last week that some Chicagoans get the wrong idea when he tells them what he does for a living.

“If you [say], ‘We’re working on ‘Chicago Fire,’’ they ask you if you’re a soccer player,” Kinney said.

The Major League Soccer team—which is named after the Great Chicago Fire of 1871—is celebrating its 15th anniversary this year. The team has the third-best record in the league but continues to battle for fans and media attention in one of the most crowded sports cities in the country. Fire forward and leading scorer Chris Rolfe said he thinks having the same name as a prime-time TV show will help his team more than hurt.

“I think [it’s confusing],” Rolfe said. “But I think it’s a good thing for the organization. If people are confused, at least it means they’re talking about the Fire.”

Executive producer Dick Wolf—who also produced “Miami Vice” and “Law & Order”—said the name can benefit both sides.

“I would hazard to guess it’s to our mutual benefit,” Wolf said during the show’s red carpet premiere Tuesday at the Chicago History Museum. “All the soccer fans will tune in, and people outside of Chicago might know the soccer team, which I don’t think is really nationally top-of-the-mind.”

In addition to Kinney, “Chicago Fire,” which premieres Wednesday, stars Jesse Spencer (“House”) and Eamonn Walker (“Oz”) and revolves around firefighters and paramedics working in the Chicago Fire Department. Walker took part in the ceremonial coin toss before Wednesday’s fire game at Toyota Park in Bridgeview and also hosted a screening of the show’s premiere after the game on the big screen TV.

Players had been expected to attend Tuesday’s screening but had to cancel due to scheduling conflicts, according to the Fire. “There are plenty of potential opportunities,” Fire team President Julian Posada said. “We’re starting that dialogue. We’re both working on the same thing—promoting in our own way.”

THE DIGIT

$50 MILLION

That's how much 'Taken 2' pulled in at the domestic box office in its debut weekend to finish No. 1. That's double what the original movie made in its first weekend in 2009, The Associated Press reports.

Channel 2

Jay-Z is in an Internet state of mind. The rap icon on Saturday launched his own YouTube channel, usatoday.com reports. The Life-Times channel will feature original programming including a Brooklyn Nets docu-series and a fan interaction show. Maybe he can boost ratings with a few Beyoncé appearances? Please?

BIRD BRAIN

Leave it to "Saturday Night Live" to get Big Bird's first comment on last week's presidential debate, when GOP candidate Mitt Romney said he would cut PBS funding. When asked on "Weekend Update" how he had found out that Romney had mentioned his name, Big Bird responded: "Oh, I got a million tweets. ... I'm a bird. Tweeting is how we talk."

Wedding weekend

"Private Practice" star Audra McDonald tied the knot Saturday, according to eonline.com, marrying Broadway star Will Swenson in New York. Elsewhere, Amber Tamblyn married David Cross on Saturday, usmagazine.com reports.

Ratings boost

Did Nicki Minaj really make a gun threat against fellow "American Idol" judge Mariah Carey? "I don't know," Carey's husband, Nick Cannon, told eonline.com with a laugh. "I wasn't there. It made for good news. It sounded good, right? Good job, Fox."

HOT DATE

OCT. 20

That's the date of auditions for The Rock's new reality series, "The Hero." Casting producers will be at XSport Fitness, 819 S. State St., from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. meeting candidates. Get details at showpatroltv.com.
